

SRA Update

Issue 139 - May 2025

- General updates [#tab_82611]
- Compliance updates [#tab_82612]

Welcome to the latest issue of SRA Update. It's that time of year where we turn our attention to the future and the development of our Business Plan for 2025/26. This will be the third and final year of our current Corporate Strategy. We have had to readjust significantly in light of a rapidly changing legal sector to make sure that we continue to appropriately protect the public. Our Business Plan outlines what we intend to do. We very much welcome any views on the consultation. Also this month read about the next steps regarding updating our approach to setting financial penalties - including our approach to cases of drink driving, and that we have recently authorised the first-ever firm using AI. Also find out how you can sign up to events and webinars on topics such as AML, innovation and our forward plans.

Paul Philip

Chief Executive

Have your say on our Business Plan and budget

We are consulting on our latest Business Plan and budget, and compensation fund contributions. The plan outlines an increased programme of work to respond to a rapidly changing market. This includes dealing with a sustained increase in reports of misconduct, more complex cases and rising concerns about the high-volume consumer claims market.

First AI-driven law firm authorised

[<https://guidance.sra.org.uk/sra/news/press/garfield-ai-authorised/>]

We have authorised the first law firm providing legal services through artificial intelligence (AI), a landmark moment. Many firms are already using AI to support and deliver a range of back-office and public-facing services, but this is the first purely AI-based firm we have approved to provide regulated legal services.

Further changes to the fining regime

[<https://guidance.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-139-financial-penalties/>]

We have been refining our approach to financial penalties over the last four years. We promised to keep our position under review and will be looking at further changes this year. This includes altering the approach to drink driving and accommodating the Economic Crime and Corporate Transparency Act.

Welcome to the latest issue of Compliance News. We are part of the Legal Services Affinity Group – the UK’s leading legal supervisors for anti-money laundering (AML). The group’s guidance has been updated and now approved by HM Treasury and includes information on the proceeds of crime regime. It also addressed the issue of your responsibilities regarding checking your clients’ source of funds, one of the issues we most frequently get asked about.

Checking clients’ source of funds

[\[https://guidance.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/money-laundering/aml-questions-answers/#source\]](https://guidance.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/money-laundering/aml-questions-answers/#source)

It’s important that you take a proactive and well-documented approach to understanding the origin of your clients’ funds. Failing to do this can leave you exposed and at risk. To consider this we have published a range of information.

Anti-money laundering guidance for legal sector

[\[https://guidance.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/money-laundering/guidance-support/#heading_0de8\]](https://guidance.sra.org.uk/solicitors/resources/money-laundering/guidance-support/#heading_0de8)

The latest revision of the Legal Sector Affinity Group (LSAG) anti-money laundering (AML) guidance has been approved by HM Treasury and takes effect from 23 April 2025. LSAG is made up of all the legal AML supervisory bodies. Updates include changes to the proceeds of crime regime, a revised approach to due diligence on bodies corporate, and further guidance on source of funds checks.

Reminders about expert evidence in high-volume work [<https://guidance.sra.org.uk/sra/news/sra-update-139-high-volume-claims-changes/>]

The Royal Institute for Chartered Surveyors has issued a practice alert to remind members of their obligations when providing expert witness services. Specifically, it mentions work in housing disrepair and other high-volume work. And MedCo has updated its guidance on examinations for personal injury claims. You might need to be aware of these updates.
